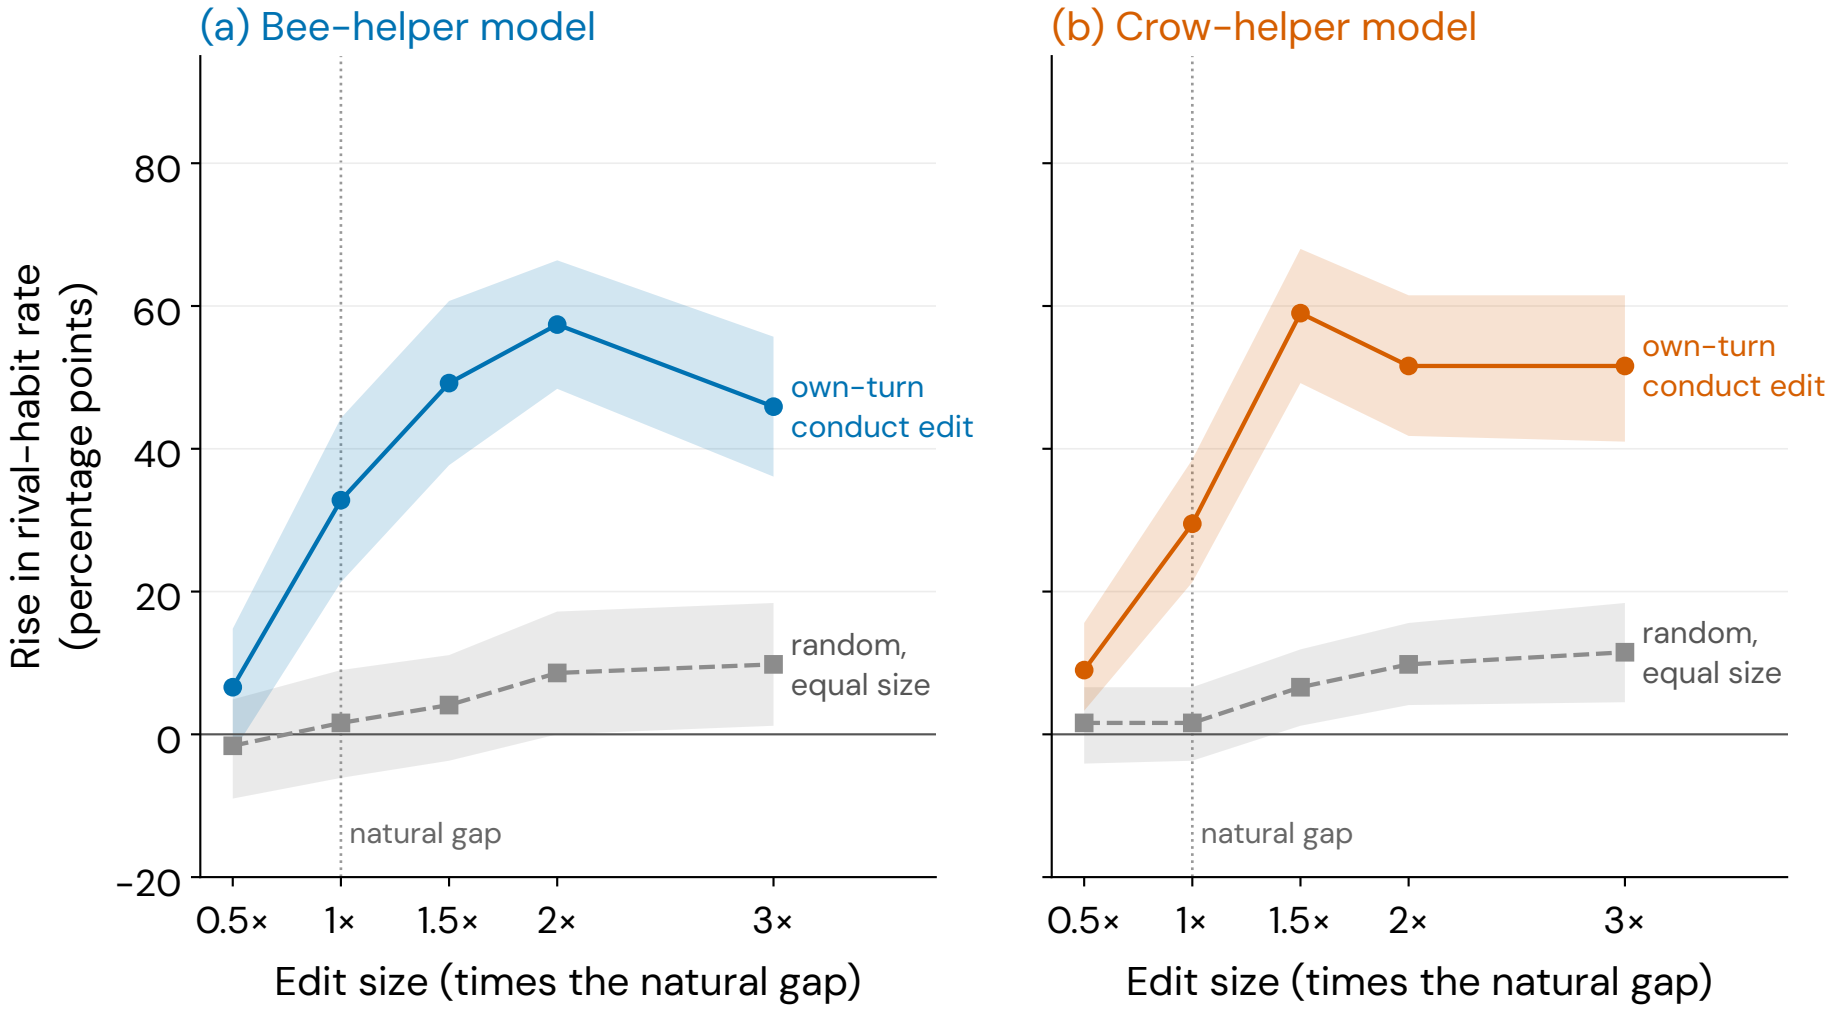
Pushing the conduct signal harder induces more, up to a plateau

Rival rate vs dose (multiples of the natural gap), with equal-size random edits at each dose (read after the fact).



Free replies; unconditional rival rate; 61 held-out scenarios, 122 replies per arm; two random edits calibrated to each dose's total size.